THE RETIRING GOVERNOR

Ex-Governor Harry Davis

Donahey Pledges To Be Governor Of All The People

COLUMBUS, O., January 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Governor Donahey's inaugural address followed:

"In common with several elected state officials, representing two political parties, I have just taken the oath of office which requires the governor of Ohio to support the constitution of the state and the United States and to enforce faithfully all laws. I have done so without mental reservation.

"Without the loyal support of the public, however, the governor will be helpless. At the outset, therefore, I must appeal to the good will and the helpful support of the people, as well as of all officials, if I am to fulfill the vow I have just taken.

Outlines Specific Duties

"Permit me to outline briefly a few specific duties affecting the economic and social welfare of the people, which our constitution and laws impose upon the chief executive.

"The constitution declares that the supreme executive power of this state shall be vested in the governor. This necessarily embraces the appointment of departmental officials and employees, and I promise to appoint only honest, capable and efficient men and women. I shall not knowingly appoint any who are dishonest or inefficient.

Need Old-Fashioned Discipline

"The constitution furthermore confers upon the governor the right to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons. I pledge that there shall be no abuse of this power. Society can protect itself only by strict enforcement of penal laws. One of the greatest dangers confronting our country today, in my opinion, is a tendency to a disregard for old-fashioned discipline in both public and private life.

Will Preserve Peace

"The constitution provides also that the governor shall be commander-in-

Ceremonies Simple But Impressive; Other Officials Take Office

COLUMBUS, O., January 8.—(By the Associated Press)—A. V. Donahey, of New Philadelphia, today became the fiftieth governor of the state of Ohio.

Transfer of authority from the hands of Harry L. Davis, Republican, to those of Mr. Donahey, Democrat, was accomplished in inaugural ceremonies remarkable for their brevity and simplicity.

From the time that the 166th Infantry Band, which earned fame in France during the World War, opened the exercises with a blaring march at 11:30 a. m., until Mr. Donahey had been formally and officially proclaimed the state's new chief executive, only one short hour had passed. The oath of office was administered with the governor standing on a rough pine platform on the steps of the capitol.

Shows Thrift From Start

His official program, one of efficiency and economy, Governor Donahey declared that he did not wish to spend prodigiously of either time or money, in the exercises attendant upon his assuming office, and his wishes were complied with.

He carried the program of brevity ever farther than had been expected, and occupied only a few minutes with his inaugural address, which, under most circumstances has been a lengthy discourse, intended not only for official acceptance, but also for a statement of policies, and the vehicle for various legislative recommendations.

Mr. Donahey's address was confined, as he said, merely to statements preparatory to transmission of his message to the legislature tomorrow, in which he promised a full statement of his hopes and intentions.

From First Step to Governor's Chair

The official part of the inaugural ceremony, Governor Donahey withdrew to the rotunda of the state house where, surrounded by the paintings of governors before him, he received congratulations of friends, who had watched him rise from the proprietor of a small town printing shop, to the highest office the state has to offer. With his wife, and cabinet and state officials, Governor Donahey received the crowds, as they made their way through the freshly decorated corridors of the state house. The governor then retired to his hotel room.

The only remaining event of the inaugural is a formal reception to be held tonight in the senate chamber in the state house. Here the new governor will receive the justices of the Ohio supreme court, state judiciary, state officials and officers of the army and navy, the Ohio National Guard, and the public.

The official ceremonies of the day were opened by the invocation, asked by Rev. O. L. Lindenberg, pastor of Shepherd M. E. Church, Columbus, where Governor Donahey attended services during his two terms as state auditor. Then, as the pastor stepped back, Governor Davis, as the last act of his administration, presented the new chief executive with the commission showing that he had been duly elected governor.

Oath Administered

The preliminaries dispensed with, Chief Justice Marshall, of the Ohio Supreme Court, stepped forward in his sombre robes, and administered the oath. Mr. Donahey standing with arm upraised, and repeating the phrases after the chief justice. As this ceremony was completed, 17 loud guns boomed out the governor's salute and the new chief executive launched into his inaugural address, which he delivered in his usual emphatic manner.

Singing of the Stars-Spangled Banner by the audience, and pronouncement of the benediction, was the signal for the crowd to make its way to the north portal where lines were formed to pass before the governor in the rotunda and wend their way out through the south doors.

Governor Donahey's insistence for the minimizing of the ceremony resulted in the omission from the day's exercises of the inaugural parade, which provided entertainment for the crowds during the afternoon, and brought to Columbus almost the entire personnel of the Ohio National Guard, and the substitution of the formal evening reception for the inaugural ball, a state event of the evening. Both of these he regarded as not absolutely essential and entailing too large an expenditure of state funds.

Financial expenditures for today's inaugural were nominal, according to a committee of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, which arranged the details. Postage and other incidentals were the only expenses incurred, it was said.

More Officials Sworn In

With the new governor, other state officials elected in November, assumed their offices. All of these, with the exception of Earl D. Bloom, lieutenant-governor, are Republicans and Mr. Donahey, likewise, will work with a legislative branch containing

Ten of Donahey's Children There

COLUMBUS, O., January 8.—(By the Associated Press)—At least ten of the crowd which today witnessed the inauguration of Governor Donahey, had an intense and personal interest in the affair. These were his children, ten of them—ranging in age from five years well into the twenties, all of them brought together to see their father inducted into the highest elective office the state has to offer.

Besides the ten children, one grandchild, the daughter of Mr. Donahey's married daughter, also was present. The Donahey children are: Mrs. Elizabeth Ogden, Toledo, and the following members of the family who live at home: Margaret, Robert, John, Hale, Richard, James, Dorothy, Vic Jr., and Marian, the youngest, aged five. Most of the children, however, will not remain in Columbus to live with their parents in the executive mansion. Mrs. Donahey and the youngest child, Marian, will be here at least a part of the time, and while they are at New Philadelphia at the old home, a daughter, Margaret, will act as mistress of the mansion. The governor desires that the children of school age continue their studies without interruption in the schools in which they started.

Price Russell, of Creston, was the first of Governor Donahey's appointees to go to work today. As executive clerk, he arrived at the office about 10 o'clock and at once began taking stock of his duties which are not new to him.

Many of the retiring members of Governor Davis' official family, who retire with their chief or expect to do so soon, evaled at the executive office during the forenoon to bid him goodbye and extend their best wishes for his future.

Jeering Parodies Of Splendid Carols Of Russian Church As Soviet Burlesques Christmas

MOSCOW, January 8.—(By the Associated Press)—No Ikons, no reminders of the church processions that in the past have marked the advent of the Christmas festivals here, were in evidence today. The songs were jeering parodies of the splendid carols of the Russian church.

Goblin-like burlesques of the gods of all peoples alternated with motor trucks upon which rode students and young women, dressed as caricatures of religious dignitaries, placards proclaimed such communist doctrines as "religion is the opiate of the people," and "man made God in his image, and God man in his." ROW OVER COOK BREAKS UP FAMILY

MUSKOGEE, MICH., Jan. 8.—(By Associated Press.)—Eugene Meurer, millionaire paper manufacturer, was planning today to fight threatened deportation proceedings which would deprive him again of his cook, Miss Margaret Wasserman, 42 years old. Miss Wasserman whose cooking talent Meurer said was essential to his health, was arrested here last night on instructions of Illinois authorities who alleged she entered the United States last year in violation of the federal statutes.

The presence of Miss Wasserman in the Meurer home was the cause of a controversy between Meurer and his family ending finally in a divorce. In a property settlement at the time Meurer gave his wife $50,000 and announced he had awarded Miss Waserman $40,000 as a reward for her service.

Miss Wasserman's arrest last night is said to have been based on affidavits made in New York December 9, by Mrs. Walter Volth, daughter of Meurer, in which she alleged Miss Wasserman's position in the household was not strictly that of a cook; that she was a German citizen and that she had made statements derogatory to the United States.

Thunder and lightning! Did you hear the thunder that rumbled over Portsmouth and see the lightning as it slashed its way through the city early Sunday evening when a severe storm swept this section? Thunder and lightning for so early in the year lightning struck the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Lindsay, who live on the Beach Vista Pike, West Side. They were sitting supper when the bolt struck the telephone in their hall. The side of the hall was damaged and the deer casing was splintered.

Much Excitement, Woman Hurt When She Jumps; Small Damage From Closet Fire

Fire which originated from a lighted match, dropped in a clothes closet at a boarding house conducted by Wesley Tritt, 2809 Gallia street, shortly after five o'clock Sunday afternoon, caused considerable excitement. The damage was slight, as the blaze was quickly suppressed by the fire apparatus, which was rushed to the scene from the Gallia street station. During the excitement, Mrs. Annie E. Ogle, 56 years old, roomer, jumped from a second story window as her husband was attempting to lower her to the ground with a rope, and she sustained a sprained left ankle, and a bad cut on her knee. Hazelbeck will insure you.

Floods Sweep Oregon And Washington

PORTLAND, OREGON, January 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Flood waters drew a closer cordon about Portland today while reports from all sections of western Oregon and southwestern Washington pictured vast areas under water and many towns and communities isolated. Cessation of the torrential rains of the last few days gave promise that the crest of the flood was about over. Although the Covidz and a few other small streams late last night still were rising, reports from Willamette Valley points were that many rivers tributary to the Willamette were falling rapidly. A cloudburst four miles from Morton, Wash., Saturday wrecked the West Fork Logging Camp. A five foot wall of water overtook nearly every building in the camp. One man and his two-year-old son were reported missing. As the situation stood early today the crest of the flood pouring down the Willamette had not reached Portland and the river here was rising nearly two inches hourly. Trains were running in and out of the city in haphazard fashion or not at all. Reports from Salem were that the country round about was experiencing the most severe flood since 1890. With railway service closed and highways flooded, the city was virtually isolated.

Nineteen years ago, Goetting was convicted of a murder which resulted in the death of Keim and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Mansfield reformatory.

He later was adjudged insane and transferred to the Cleveland State Hospital and later dismissed as cured.

When arrested yesterday, Goetting told the police that the blood on his clothes was the result of a fight he and a companion had had with a negro Saturday night. Questioned by the police, his companion admitted having been with Goetting early Saturday evening but denied they had been in a fight.

Ordered To Pay Alimony
Bruce McClees, N. & W. brakeman, was ordered by Judge Thomas following a hearing in Common Pleas court Monday, to pay his wife, Etta McClees, 1615 Robinson avenue, the sum of $10 a week pending the final hearing of her suit for divorce and alimony recently instituted. The couple were married last February and separated last week because of differences over money matters, the hearing disclosed, the wife declaring that McClees neglected her and squandered his earnings in high living. She told the court that her husband offered her but fifteen cents out of his last pay check but that she spared the money by reason of his liberality.

Attorneys Blair and Blair for the wife, and Attorney W. R. Sprague appeared for McClees.

Wife Granted Divorce

After Vice Burchett, of Union street, on the stand in her own behalf during the hearing of her suit for divorce against William A. Burchett in Common Pleas court Monday, testified that Burchett abandoned her and their two minor children in July 1921 for the association of other women, Judge Thomas granted her a decree and gave her the custody of their children. The couple were married in Carter county, Ky., May 27, 1911. The defendant's present whereabouts are unknown. Attorneys Miller & Searl appeared for the wife.

Made Ward of Court

Bessie Schuster, 14 years old, was adjudged a delinquent and made a ward of the juvenile court Monday after the girl's mother, Mrs. Rachel Spence, 1019 Eleventh street, told Judge Gilliland that her daughter was incorrigible and disobedient and in the habit of associating with boys.

Wife Makes Many Charges

Myrtle Horsely, Vine street, New Boston, charges neglect, habitual drunkenness, cruelty and infidelity, and names one, Mary Horsely in her suit for divorce and alimony instituted in Common Pleas court Monday against King Horsely, Stanton avenue, New Boston, whom she married April 15, 1920.

In her petition filed through Attorney A. R. Campbell, the plaintiff says that Horsely has failed and refused to support her, squanders his earnings for drink and neglects her for the association of the other woman, besides, the wife complains, he has called her vile names and otherwise abused her.

Specific Performance of Contract Suit
Frank Seymour against Matt Holzman and Augusta M. Holzman is the style of an action instituted in Common Pleas court by the plaintiff, seeking specific performance of contract in respect to the conveyance of part of Lot 8 and all of Lots 9, 10 and 11 in the Holzman addition to the City of Portsmouth.

In his petition filed through Attorneys Blair and Blair, Seymour says that he and the defendant, Matt Holzman entered into an agreement whereby plaintiff was to grade and fill all, which is situated on Mabert Road, in consideration of the conveyance to him in fee simple by deed of General Warranty, free of all incumbrances, the lots in question, which, it is claimed, was executed and placed in the hands of Attorney T. C. Beatty to hold until the work was completed when it was to be turned over to plaintiff.

Seymour then complains that after he had completed the filling and grading work according to contract he learned that Holzman, without his knowledge or consent obtained from T. C. Beatty the deed of conveyance and has ever since and still refuses to return the deed. He further alleges that the defendants in order to defraud him and to prevent their agreement with him from being carried out executed to Dan C. Conroy certain mortgages on the lots to secure the payment of loans. He asks that if, upon trial of the case it be determined that the defendants cannot execute and deliver a deed to the premises, that he be given judgment for $5,000 the agreed value of his work.

Redman Adjudged Insane

John T. Redman, better known as "Jack" formerly of Burden, was adjudged insane at an inquest in Probate court Monday and Judge Gilliland ordered him committed to the Athens state hospital. The examining physicians were Dr. S. S. Halderman and Albert Berault.

The present sad plight of Redman is attributed to a skull fracture which he sustained about four weeks ago when he slipped and fell on an ice covered street in New Boston while on his way to work at the Breece plant.

Brothers In The Toils

Earl Crabtree, 24, and Lowell Crabtree, 19, brothers living in the Dutch Run neighborhood, were taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff Clark and Seineder Sunday and brought to the county jail where they are held to meet charges of assault upon Jim Henry, also of Dutch Run.

Henry claims that the two young men bombarded him with stones last Thursday night as he was passing along the public highway and that they made it so hot for him that he was forced to abandon his team and wagon on the road and seek the shelter of his home. It is claimed Henry secured a shot gun and drove his attackers away. The brothers will be given a hearing before Judge McClure of McDermott who issued the warrants for their arrest.

Marriage License

Warren Wilburn, 21, railroad laborer, city and Sadie Fox, 21, housekeeper, city.

Hardware Dealer's Body Hacked To Pieces By Axe Taken From His Stock

CLEVELAND, Jan. 8.—Police today prepared to compare bloody fingerprints, photographed from an axe found in the hardware store of Harry Keim, 46, with those of Fred Goetting, in an effort to connect him with Keim's murder. They also said they expected to formally charge the suspect with the murder.

Keim's body, hacked to pieces with the axe was found in his store early yesterday. Apparently he met death after a struggle and indications are that he was struck with the weapon many times after his death.

The axe was taken from Keim's stock by the slayer.

Goetting, his clothing and shoes covered with blood stains was arrested at his home in the neighborhood shortly after the crime was discovered. A lodge receipt issued to Keim was found in his possession, according to the police.

Goetting, recently was released from Lima, Ohio state hospital for the criminal insane. He was committed to the institution two years ago after he had written an anonymous letter to the police in which

WILD BUFFALO STILL EXISTS

THE Canadian government has taken a census of a herd of wild bison which pastures in the Far Northwest of the Dominion in the Peace River region and it is found that there are 5,000 to 6,000 of the animals. These are the only survivors of the vast herds which once roamed from the Alleghenies westward, except those which have been placed in parks or on protected ranges. It is surprising to learn that there are any survivors in the free state. For a time it looked like the buffalo might become extinct, but that result is no longer feared. In fact some herds have become so numerous that it has become necessary to slay a portion each year.

The wanton slaughter of the buffalo has been lamented often, yet their presence was incompatible with the advancing immigrants who sought out their grazing grounds in which to find homes. The animals served as food only in emergency. The remnant which is found in Canada exists, doubtless, because it is far removed from the settlements of man. If the day arrives when man wants for his own their pastures they too will be sacrificed.

DISARMING POTENTIAL KILLERS

SINCE the assassination of the president of Poland a decree prohibiting the carrying of firearms has been issued. This is regarded as a drastic step abroad, for it has the ring of martial law, but is considered essential to the safety of the republic. Potential murderers are being disarmed all over the world.

Sir Basil Thomson, head of Scotland Yard, credits England's law restricting the possession of firearms with the success attained by the police in controlling an after-the-war crime wave. Similar laws have been enforced in the United States successfully, and experts agree that the results have been good.

It is recognized that the law disarms the honest man, while the thief disregards it, but it points out the thief. If everyone carried arms, the thief could shoot at will and he could not be touched until the deed was done, nor afterward on the charge that he possessed a revolver recently fired. Similarly, if two thousand persons wear masks one may commit a crime, and escape with ease because of the impossibility of deciding which of the two thousand is guilty.

REWARDS OF COURTESY

A San Francisco man who died recently made bequests to about 200 persons who in one way or another had been courteous and considerate in their relations with him. The list embraced men and women in all walks of life. Doubtless many of the recipients were totally unaware that they had done anything deserving of notice, much less of pecuniary reward. The donor seems to have noted carefully those who through natural kindness smoothed his pathway and expressed his appreciation in a substantial way through his will.

Were one to be guided solely by hope of a like reward in shaping one's actions along courteous lines probably there would be disappointment. Such an investment would not turn out profitably. But if one is polite to others simply because it is the right thing, there will be ample reward even though one is not remembered in another's will. Consideration for others makes life more pleasant all around. Each is but one among many and all possess the same right. At best there are enough aspies in life. One who sets out to resent every imagined slight will not be happy and will make others unhappy.

One who accepts one's fellow men at face value until the opposite is proved will find the world a pretty fair place in which to live. Courtesy begets courtesy.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(By Associated Press.)—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys, Early up and about the city; after a month away. And to see many who knew nothing of my absence. Put in at my dentist's and he hurt me not at all albeit I wish he might be a better story teller.

Lunched with T. Dorenius, newly come from Shanghai and strolled among the money-changers in Wall and Broad, where a high wind carried my hat above the roof tops. And Lord, the tittering and fun making along the javes.

Home and found a letter from C. R. Cooper, the pamphleteer, who hath acquired a saxophone and vows he will master it, poor fellow. All the afternoon at my labours and with rare zeal, too.

To the Margery with my wife for dinner and she the prettiest there and thither to see a musical play where Elizabeth Hines was merry and bright and she blew a kiss at us, and mighty proud I was. Walked home, after sending my wife by benzine buggy, and so to bed.

A few years ago he was the dumbest, best natured office boy the length and breadth of Park Row. One day he said to the managing editor: "I'm going to chuck this job and write for the pitchers."

"All right, Mr. Maeterlinck," replied the M. E. "Come around some time after you've become King of Hollywood."

The other day he blew into the office in a natty fur coat, velvet hat and carried a don't carish walking stick. His cap was pulling out front.

He is the author of a film that is enjoying high favor at one of the first run houses on Broadway.

The most tragic story of the day's events in New York to me is the disappearance of Shimmy, a mongrel dog, who is the constant companion of a blind newsdealer at a Ninth avenue corner. Without the dog the dealer is unable to walk the streets. And it is good to hear that every blue clothes man and police man in the entire city has been given a special order to look out for the canine.

Eddie For's son Bryan alleges he is the author of the famous "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen" song which the comedians by the name used to sweep them to unusual theatrical popularity. The photograph record royalties alone have reached $75,000. Young For is now suing for $25,000. There is no sense to the song, yet it has become one of the most popular of ditties and is whistled and played everywhere.

Homeward hurrying New Yorkers were stopped in their rush to the Grand Central terminal the other evening by a new kind of a hally-ho locus ponos for a street faker. Fastened about him was a contraption that resembled a horse—and he would make it rear and charge and plunge with a dash. When the crowd was big enough he stepped out of the papier mache horse and said he was going to give one dollar bills away. He produced a big roll of them, but by this time the police crashed through the crowds and took him away and no one was able to find out just what it was he was going to sell.

Broadway is whispering of a split between one of the most famous producers and a male star who has been with him for years. Each has made a huge fortune. The separation is not without its touch of humor. The reason for the break is said to be a heated dispute over a game of pin-ochle.

A "Sneak" Sale Of Boys' And Girls' Apparel

When the manager of this department left for Miami, Florida, last Thursday to enjoy the summer breezes there he left word not to reduce the prices on this stock, because these styles and fabrics were just as good for spring as winter, and the garments would be worth just as much in April as they are now. This stance as being an awfully good reason why folks would like to buy them at this time because the children would wear them the rest of the winter and next spring. Then, too, we are wanting one of these 14 sales to be on Children's apparel so we are taking a chance of offending this manager and having a crack-jack sale in his absence. As an excuse we will probably tell him that we'd forgot just what he did say and now since he was gone and the customers are here we thought it more expedient to favor the folks who stayed at home. With reductions like these we are sure that this sale of children's apparel is 'way ahead of anything like it offered in the community. 14 Big Sales At Once--What A Picnic For Thrifty Shoppers

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Hearing that you could answer all questions put to you, I would like to have you answer this one for me. Here it is, Dolly, and it is a awful hard problem: The head of a fish is four feet long, the tail as long as the head, and one-half the length of the body as long as the head and tail. What is the length of the fish?

SCHOOL BOY—The fish would be thirty-two feet long. I learned to solve this problem when I was a baby and have been doing it for boys like you ever since.

Dear Dolly—We have been in a deep argument in the last few days about what is the financial standing of all the nations of the world. One of the wizards claim that the sum would read as follows: $1,111,222,333,444,555,666,777,888,999,000. Please tell us how to read this, and if this is not correct, kindly tell us what is the value of all the nations combined.

FINANCIAL WIZARDS—The total or National wealth of the United States was estimated at $300,000,000,000, on February 1, 1921. I haven't counted it since that time. In June 1920 in a paper read before the Bankers' Institute, London, Edward Crammond estimated the National wealth of the chief countries as follows: United States, $350,000,000,000 to $400,000,000,000; United Kingdom, $120,000,000,000; France, $92,500,000,000; Germany, $88,000,000,000; Italy, $55,000,000,000; Belgium, $12,000,000,000; Japan, $23,000,000,000.

You can total this up yourself, as you have more time than I have and it will be good exercise for your brain, and keep you out of mischief for awhile.

Dear Dolly—I am 16 and going with a boy of 10. Dolly I like him better than I do my parents, and I am going with him if they beat me up, every time they find it out. I went with him quite awhile before I found out that he was married, and I am not going to quit him now. My parents have forbidden me to talk to him, but I am going to talk just the same. Dolly I want your advice. We think lots of each other.

SWEET SIXTEEN—If you feel that way about it, there is no use giving you advice, but I would like to say a few words to your parents. If they happen to recognize your letter, and also to the so-called man you are crazy about. If they can't reason with you, or make you realize that it is wrong to go with this married man, they can go to the man and tell him that if he does not let you alone, or quit hanging around, they will "clean up on him." If he still persists in seeing you, your father should roll up his sleeves and give him the best licking he ever got in his life. You are old enough in years to know better, and if a good talking to will not have any effect on you, your parents will have to take it for granted that your brain hasn't developed to the point where you know right from wrong, and deal with you accordingly.

Dear Dolly—Would you please print a recipe for pimento cheese for me? I have been wanting to make some and do not know just how to make it.

MRS. C. G. M.—Here's a good way to make pimento cheese which is especially nice for sandwiches: Take about one pound of ordinary cream cheese and run it through the meat chopper, or cut it up real fine and mash with a potato masher. Beat in enough cream or canned milk to make it the consistency of soft butter. Season with one teaspoon of grated onion, salt and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Add about one-half a can of the canned pimentos, or three fresh ones chopped fine. This will keep for several days if in cool weather and in hot weather if placed in the ice box. You can also buy the pimento cheese in glasses ready for use at most any grocery store.

Dear Dolly—I am a lady that loves to cook, and I want you to give me a recipe for baking angel food cake. Dear Dolly, I am going with a boy of 19 and he is too bashful to come to my house to see me. I like him very much and I want you to tell me how I can get him to come to see me.

WORRIED GIRL—Angel Food Cake—Whites of 11 eggs, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one and one-half cups of granulated sugar, one cup of sifted flour and one teaspoon of flavoring. Beat the eggs until light; add the cream of tartar and beat to a stiff froth; then add the sugar gradually. Fold in the flour after it has been sifted five times; add the vanilla and pour the mixture into an ungreased angel cake pan. Bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes, turn the pan upside down and let it stand until the cake falls out. If you can't tempt the man to come to see you with a piece of this cake, or a stick of candy, I don't know of anything else that you can do. If you refuse to meet him on the street, or play hide-and-seek behind a tree, he will have to come to the house, if he wants to see you.

SOCIAL NEWS

Mr. Clyde L. Knost and Miss Dorothy Kinsey were quietly married on Saturday at high noon. The wedding took place at the home of the parents of the bride, and only the immediate family were present. The home was most tastefully decorated with potted plants and flowers for the occasion. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Monroe Howerton, minister of the Central Presbyterian church, and was most beautiful and impressive. Directly following the wedding a tempting luncheon was served, after which the happy couple left on a trip of two weeks.

The announcement will come as a surprise and be of much interest to a wide circle of friends of the contracting parties. It being the desire of the young couple to be well away on their journey before the news leaked out.

A Living Monument to Ourselves

Lawrence Sheriffe made a fortune as a shopkeeper in London. No one today knows where his shop of the sixteenth century stood, but every boy who has read "Tom Brown" knows about the school which Sheriffe founded at Rugby. The man is immortal who founded the school where such boys as Thomas Hughes, Dean Stanley, and Matthew Arnold went to school.

The founders and supporters of a Christian University like Ohio Wesleyan have built a monument that will endure through all time. They have opened a fountain of good from which a perennial stream of Christian influence will flow for future generations.

If none of us like to be forgotten, isn't it better to endow a university and build for ourselves an imperishable living monument, rather than just a granite one to mark our final resting place?

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NANCY and Nick and Dusty Coat called all the Dreamland people around them.

"I wonder what's going to happen next!" whispered Wally Woodchuck to Scramble Squirrel. Scramble had only come for a week's stay, but Wally intended to stay all winter. Some people are luckier than others. Just like going on a two-week vacation and finding that everybody else can stay as long as he likes.

Well, anyway, Nancy and Nick had an idea and called everybody to hear it.

"We're going to have school," Nancy announced.

"Oh, shucks," said Wally to Scramble. "That isn't what I came for."

"Me either," agreed Scramble, edging closer the better to hear. "Don't look so cross everybody," laughed Nancy. "This is a new kind of school. It's a school where everybody may talk as much as he likes and say anything he pleases. I'll be teacher and Nick will be principal. Everybody sit down, please."

Everybody sat down, please.

Mr. Jack Jumping Mouse will please recite!" she went on.

Jack Jumping Mouse, now grown as large as a kangaroo since he came to Dreamland, got up. Then he looked about cautiously. "It's about Caesar the Cat I wish to speak," he whispered. "And I don't wish him to hear. Has he gone yet?"

"Yes!" spoke up Dusty Coat, the fairy sundress. "He only comes and goes when he's taking short cat naps. Besides he always changes to Puss-in-Boots when he comes. He never stays long."

"Then," said Jack Jumping Mouse, jumping to the platform, "this is my speech: 'I dislike owls, also the cat. For they've both found out where I live at.'

"I wish in Dreamland I could stay for it's safer than the meadow and a stack of hay."

"That's all I know," said he with a bow.

"Fine," cried everybody, clapping.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

Snow seemed to be flying everywhere. Not just little snowflakes which Jack was used to, but great quantities of it, over head, and on both sides. Jack felt one of it slipping down behind his coat collar. He began to think that he would never get all the way through the big bank.

Then Jack felt himself coming into the open air again. And his sled seemed to be slowing down a bit. He opened his eyes and was very much surprised at the beautiful sights about him. His sled was now traveling slow enough for him to get a good look at all of the scenery.

Great icicles hung in every direction and they seemed to come from nowhere. Jack was afraid his sled would crash into one of these but he managed to steer it safely through the little paths between the hanging icicles. By this time his sled had almost stopped. (Continued.)

Market News

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Prices continued to sag at the opening of today's stock market on a resumption of Saturday's short selling and profit taking. Motor, oil, and copper shares were among the first to yield. Grudebaker and Sears-Roebuck each dropped a point and large fractional losses were recorded by Central Leather, Royal Dutch, Pan American and Tobacco and Copper products. "A" speculative selling over a much broader list before the end of the hour. Baldwin, Allis-Chalmers, Chandler, Pan American A and B, California Petroleum and Coca Cola regained some of their small losses. Union Pacific, Pacific Gas, Corn Products scored slight gains being nearly a point. Exchanges opened easier, demand sterling selling around $4.04 and French francs at 65 cents off 5 points. German marks dropped to 1.65 cents a hundred, another new low record. Distributing of supporting orders and a renewal of open operations in recent favorites turned the course of prices upward after the early selling had been absorbed. The rebound canceled or substantially reduced the early losses and pushed a number of the leaders well above Saturday's final prices. Independent steel rallied briskly. Grudebaker wiping out its early loss and Baldwin, B. Republic and Gulf States rising a point or more above last week's final figures. Marked strength also was noted in Manhattan Electrical Supply, up 3/4 Keyser, up 2 1/2 and California Petroleum, Chesapeake and Ohio, Associated Druggists, Wills-Overland preferred, Strouberg, Wells Fargo, North American, Public Service of N. J., and Continental and American (Cous) all up 1/2 to 2 points. Professional selling made its appearance again before midday and quoted values were shaded in a number of active shares. Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent. Professional short interests endeavored to depress prices in today's stock market, using the unsettled political situation as an excuse but their offerings were well absorbed and the general list was inclined to move upward. Sales were 725,000 shares. The closing was firm.

Name Committees For Big Revival

Appointment of additional committees in connection with the evangelistic campaign to be held in this city by Dr. George Wood Anderson and party, February 22 to March 18 and deciding on the date for the annual convention of the Soloto County Law Enforcement League, comprised the main business before the Portsmouth Ministerial Association Monday morning at the United Brethren church. Committees appointed included Entertainment, Finance, Publicity, Printing, Prayer Meetings, Sunday Schools and Building. Ministers of churches co-operating in the union revival campaign suggested names for the various committees which were then appointed by the executive committee. They are to get busy at once in making preparations for the evangelistic campaign to be held in the new Ford garage on Gallia street. An advance man from the evangelistic party is to arrive about January 22.

Gave Wrong Names; Cause Mr. Jackson Embarrassment

Relative to an item published in The Times last week in which a man giving the name of Charlie Jackson was arrested another man by this same name has written as follows: Portsmouth, O., Jan. 8, 1923. A couple arrested on a statutory charge last Tuesday night on Eleventh street gave the names as Charlie Jackson and Oma Blevins. Now this couple was some one else and gave assumed names, and the man used my name. Now you would do me a favor if you would correct this in your paper as this is causing me a great annoyance. People think this was me. I am married and live with my wife and never was in any trouble. I think if such trash gets in trouble let them bear the blame and not innocent people suffer. Britain Wants Fair Business Settlement Of Her Five Billion Debt She Owes

WASHINGTON, January 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Great Britain wants a fair business settlement of her five billion dollar war debt to the United States on such terms as will produce the least possible disturbance in the trade relations of the two countries. Stanley Baldwin, the British chancellor of the exchequer, said today before the joint meeting of the funding commissions.

"We are not here to ask for favors or to impose on generosity," said Mr. Baldwin.

"We want a fair business settlement, a square deal, a settlement that will secure for America the repayment to the last cent of those credits which the United States Government established in America for us, their associates in the war."

Mr. Baldwin's address was in reply to one of welcome by Secretary Mellon, chairman of the American commission, who expressed particular appreciation of the courtesy of the British government in having designated as its delegates men so congenial.

The trouble occurred at Sixth and Broadway streets Sunday afternoon.

OBITUARY

George Cunningham, aged 74, a well known resident of Harrisonville, died there Sunday evening after an illness due to hardening of the arteries. He is survived by his faithful wife, five sons and two daughters.

Benjamin Mackendree Yeager, Benjamin Mackendree Yeager, closed his eyes in eternal rest at his home in Lucasville Sunday night, January 7th, 1923, at 9:25 p. m., after a long illness of a complication of diseases. The end came peacefully and soothly.

Benjamin M. Yeager was born in the Yeager home in Jackson county, Ohio, April 18th, 1847, the eldest son of nine children born to William J. and Cynthia (Arthur) Yeager. His happy boyhood days were lived in and in the vicinity of Jackson.

The Civil War came on; his father volunteered, and a few months later little Ben, at the age of fifteen, preceded upon his mother to permit his education, which she finally did, placing him in the care of Capt. Cadot who was at Jackson, recruiting for his regiment. On Sept. 30, 1862, he entered this service in the 117th O. V. I. regiment, which was a few months later merged into the First Regiment Heavy Artillery Ohio Volunteers. He had enlisted as a musician and was promoted to Principal Musician as Pte Major. He was presented by Co. H. First Regiment O. V. I. A silver rifle, inscribed with his name and regiment, which is a valued relic in the family. Once when home on a recruiting forlough at Jackson, Ohio, Morgan G. Gilliland raided the town, and took him prisoner, but later released him. He served his country honorably for three years and was honorably discharged at the age of eighteen, at Knoxville, Tenn., on the 25th day of July, 1865.

In the late fall of 1865, he and his father came to Lucasville, and the family removed from Jackson county to Scioto, and located on Miller's Run. On January 23, 1873, he was united in marriage to Rachel Brant. They built a house and established a home on what is now North street, where they lived with the exception of a few short periods they spent almost fifty years together.

To this union six children were born. With the loving wife and mother, five of these survive: M. O. of Rushlow, Clinton of Portsmouth, Leo of Lucasville, Arthur B. of Valley Chapel, Nellie M., at home. Nora died in infancy.

Other living relatives include: Mrs. George Rockwell, sister, John Yeager, brother, both of Waldron, Kansas; George Yeager of Dodge, Kansas, and W. Scott Yeager, of Kremlin, Okla., brothers, and one uncle, Silas Arthur, of Portsmouth.

They engaged in farming in and near Lucasville for many years. At one time they conducted a general store. Previous to retirement about two years ago, they were in the grocery business for about fifteen years. Benjamin M. Yeager joined the Methodist church at Lucasville in 1894, and throughout his life held religion and everything pertaining to it in highest reverence. He was loved by everyone who knew him. His acquaintanceship was broad throughout the county. Some of his most cherished friendships, were his old soldier comrades, and received visitors among them at his home. He was a true and true friend to all who visited him, and was a true and true friend to all who visited him.

He was a musician whose music will long remain a memory to many people. His fine old violin, which is a relic of the South, is a very dear possession of his family.

"Benedict" as he was known, was held in finest esteem by all neighbors and friends. His bereaved family has suffered infinite loss in his going. He was tenderly cared for through his final sickness by his beloved wife with whom he spent almost fifty years of blessed companionship, and his going opened a chasm to her that can only be bridged by Eternity.

Interment at Lucasville, Services at the home, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Weaver in charge.

Federal Agents, Headed By Wanzer Rickey, Swoop Down On Cincinnati Roadhouse; Arrests Are Made

One of the most sensational raids staged in Cincinnati in a long time was pulled off there late Saturday night when a flying squadron of eight prohibition agents swooped down upon Sharon Inn at Sharonville. The raid was in charge of General Agents Frank Wanzer Rickey of this city and R. D. Goodwin.

After the doors were locked to hold between 75 to 100 persons in the place the officers made a complete search of the place and then arrested Sidney Mund, the proprietor and four of the guests on liquor charges.

Relative to the raid Monday's Enquirer said: "In the same systematic way, the raiders held the roadhouse patrons at the place for more than two hours, took the name and address of each man and woman present, checked up on those wherever possible, and then obtained the license number on every automobile in the vicinity as a precautionary measure. These persons are to be used as witnesses."

After finding 10 barrels of what was said to be 4 per cent beer and several quarts of whiskey and gin in the place the agents filed charges of selling, harboring, furnishing and possessing liquor and a charge of having maintained a common nuisance against Mund.

Charges of illegal possession were placed against each of the other four persons, who the agents charged with having liquor in their possession at the time the raid was made.

In addition to this, it was stated that a fifth guest, who left an expensive overcoat containing a bottle of gin in a pocket would be arrested today or tomorrow on the same charge. He is said to be an official of a Cincinnati concern.

Three other employees of the place who are not yet under arrest, are to be included in the conspiracy charge, making a total of at least nine persons whose names are to be taken before the Federal Grand Jury this month, with a request that they be indicted on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Federal prohibition laws. Proprietor Mund was released on bond of $7,500 on the charges placed against him when given a hearing. The others were placed under bonds of $1,000 each. Bond was furnished immediately.

It was announced that the raid was the beginning of a clean-up of all roadhouses in this vicinity where the prohibition law has been violated in recent months.

Camp Strong For Michigan

By NEA Service
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 8.—Eleven of Michigan's football stars have been honored with places on Walter Camp's All-American team. Only four teams, Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania, have received more nominations than Michigan. For years those teams were known as the "Big Four" and practically dominated football.

Camp has selected All-American teams for 33 years and has included 33 western stars in his mythical lineups, five on southern teams and two on far western. The other 22 selections represented eastern teams. Michigan, with 11 selections, has one-third of the west's selections to its credit.

Willie Heston was the first Michigan player selected. That was in 1903. Harry Kipke of this year's eleven was the honored selection for 1922.

AGED FARMER KILLED IN FALL FROM CLIFF

(Special To The Times)
HAMDEN, O., Jan. 8.—Losing his balance and falling about 75 feet over a rocky cliff, while pointing out to a neighbor where a dog had lost its life on the rocks, Anderson Skinner, 60, well known farmer, near here, was instantly killed Sunday afternoon. Death was due to internal injuries, the body striking numerous rocky ledges on the fall to the base of the cliff.

Skinner lived on the rocky cliff that overlooks the B. & O. station at Highland, five miles west of Hamden. Many of his chickens had been taken lately by foxes and yesterday with his shotgun he had stationed himself in a secluded spot a short distance from his home to watch for the rascals. When a neighbor called to see him, Mrs. Skinner sent the gun out to where Mr. Skinner was hiding. A short time later Mr. Skinner took the neighbor to the edge of the cliff, to point out to him where a dog had lost its life sometime ago properly when chasing a fox.

While leaning over to point out the spot Skinner lost his balance and fell.

The neighbor hurried by a round about way to the base of the cliff, where he found the dead body. The accident victim had spent most of his life in the Highland neighborhood and was well known. He is survived by his wife, four daughters, Cora, Carl, Edna and Cornelia and three sons, Carl, Ward and Ralph.

"Better Results With Less Work" Is To Be Motto Of Times And Sun Cooking School

Ladies, are you interested in learning new and easier ways of cooking? Would you like to know more about baking light, delicious cakes, arranging attractive salads and preparing novel desserts?

If you are interested you will want to attend the free cooking school of the Daily Times and Morning Sun to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons starting at two o'clock in Bagman's hall, Chillicothe and Seventh streets. This school will be directed by specialists and all women of the city and nearby communities are invited to attend.

"Better results with less work" is the motto of Miss Margaret Welmer who is in charge of all the demonstrations given at the school. She is a graduate of the home economics department at Columbia University and since completing her course has been lecturing and giving demonstrations on the preparation of food. She is thoroughly familiar with the problems of the woman who prepares the meals in the average home and she emphasizes the practical rather than the fancy.

The school opens each afternoon at two o'clock sharp. The work will be divided into instruction in the preparation of various types of foods which are used by all. The opening day is to be given over to salads, Thursday to cakes and Friday to fancy yeast breads according to the program, mapped out by Miss Edna Walquist and her assistant Miss Esther Hawgan who look after considerable educational work along with the practical demonstrations. No goods will be sold, no orders will be taken, nor will those who attend be asked to obligate themselves in any manner except to enjoy themselves and learn easier and more efficient methods of preparing foods for serving.

The instruction will not only deal with preparation of foods but also with discussion of food values, arrangements of menus, methods of serving, variation of diet and kitchen arrangement. All demonstrations will be conducted in a model kitchen arranged especially for this school and which in itself should be of interest to every woman.

Plans have been made to take care of hundreds of women and the hope of the Times and Sun is that the women will take advantage of this wonderful opportunity. Charges are generally made for schools where such valuable information is given but the Times and Sun cooperating with the Washburn-Crosby Company of Minneapolis have arranged for this free school here.

PORTSMOUTH

"Gone Is the Luxury of Cassese's Yacht, Named 'The Edith' for Her."

"And a Process Server Handled Him a Summons in an Alienation Suit."

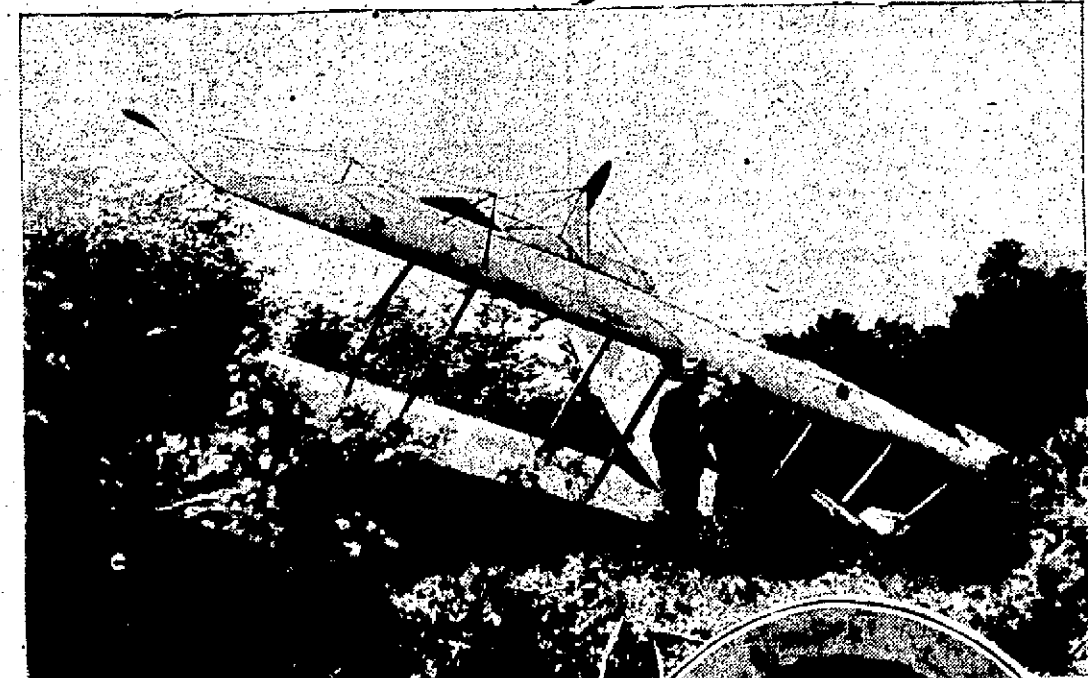

"At a Fashionable Function I Recognized My Family Bootlegger in the Ballroom."

"Because He Appropriated Her $5000 Car to Drive Other Women About."

Now the Escapades of the Bootlegger Millionaires!

Near Croton-on-the-Hudson an Airplane Was Wrecked, Which, the Federal Authorities Hinted, Belonged to the "Speedy" Son of a Bootlegger Millionaire.

THERE is a brand new social set in America. It is the newest of the nouveau riche; newer than the oil or copper or steel crowd, newer than the war profiteers.

It is the strangest of all those layers of caste which tower into the fabric of America's social system; it is none other than the Bootleg Aristocracy! What though its leaders sometimes leave for long sojourns in the penitentiary? What though they always live with the impulse to glance furtively over a shoulder? Their motors are nickel-plated or hoods; their yachts are sea-going and roomy; their wives—or more frequently sweethearts—jewels are the biggest, most resplendent gems outside museums or crown collections, and the authority they swing is more than equal to that of any political boss in all the world. What else constitutes aristocracy as we recognize it?

The King of All the Bootleggers, according to tradition in Brooklyn, was Anthony Cassese. But he is a fallen king now; deposed in a federal courtroom from his high estate and sentenced to Atlanta penitentiary. And in Brooklyn, if such things were done, there would be mourning for the Twilight of the Kings, for another member of the clan, a mere kinglet as compared with Cassese, however—John T. Vannata, once a druggist, preceded him to penal servitude by a train or two.

Meanwhile, beautiful Edith Stevens, dazzled by her role of Cassese's bootlegger queen, is forced to defend a suit for divorce brought by her husband, Milton Hirsch. Gone is the luxury of Cassese's yacht, named "The Edith" for her; gone the hundred and one other things of great wealth. Yet this girl philosophically consoles herself with the reflection that bootlegging is a risky profession at best, and that she enjoyed at least a period of grandeur.

A precocious child variety of girl is Edith, whose years total a mere 19. She is petite and animated, with big dark eyes and fluffy dark hair. And while her conversation once ran to the type of the office girl which was her position, with affluence she developed the broadened "Hahvahd" enunciation.

Cassese was a cigarette manufacturer when she met him, at the very beginning of the work of developing a fleet of liquor smuggling ships. They went to Florida and Cuba and Bermuda together. He was married and she found it out, but the circumstances appeared to make no appreciable difference. And when he fled and she was arrested, she fought in silence and was acquitted.

Her philosophy of life is interesting: "I'm never sorry for anything I do. I'm not sorry to have been in jail. I'm not sorry to have known Anthony Cassese. It has been a privilege. He has been a gentleman always; a fearless, interesting personality."

"It's great to shape one's own life. What a terrible thing it would be to live the same way every day, doing the same old commonplace things! I'll never be that and I'm glad of it. I can't resist impulses and I don't want to. I want adventure. I want to live. Give me turmoil—anything is better than a humdrum existence."

"Sometimes when I desire something, an inner voice says to me 'It will only bring you trouble' and my friends say 'You'll have to pay, Edith,' but it never matters. I know that I'll have to pay—but I want to live up to every expectation of myself as I pay, too."

Anthony Cassese, Brooklyn's King of the Bootlegger Millionaires, Who Discarded the Wife of His Plainer Days and Now Has Achieved the Distinction of Being Sued for Alienation of Affections.

To add to the troubles of Cassese, a process-server waylaid him as he was leaving the courthouse after his hearing, and handed him a summons in a suit for $20,000, which Milton Hirsch is bringing against him to compensate for the alleged loss of the affections of his wife, Edith Stevens Hirsch.

And while the upheaval in the Brooklyn Bootleg Aristocracy shows little sign of smoothing itself, the Manhattan aristocracy is similarly upset by the troubles of E. Hamilton Burnside, Esq., the signature having developed from Ellis R. Burnside together with proportions of his bankroll. Mrs. Bobbie Burnside, his wife, whose disposition apparently tends toward jealousy, was the cause of his trip-up.

Because Mrs. Bobbie claimed that he appropriated her $5000 exclusively-designed car for the purpose of driving other women about, she besought the aid of the police and a warrant was issued charging him with grand larceny.

It was the chance the police had been waiting for. It brought federal agents upon the scene, not only to the surprise but the deep grief of the irate wife. However, she told her story, which somewhat justified her action, according to her own ideas. When the couple were not occupying their palatial home in Nassau, the Bahamas, they stopped at a hotel near Columbus Circle, and upon this special trip she stated that her husband had spent his money on Broadway as fast as he made it, and that she had been compelled to pawn her jewelry to pay two weeks' hotel rent, amounting to $125, and to buy food.

She was running into the garage after a drive,

Yacht Parties, Custom-made Limousines, Alienation Suits and All the Trimmings of an Older Aristocracy Are Usurped by the Newest New-Rich.

The Viking, on Which Booze Valued at $500,000 Was Confiscated, Is Only One of a Fleet in New York Harbor's Rum-Running Graveyard Where Ships That Fall Afoul of the Dry Forces Are Kept Before Being Auctioned Off by the Government.

she said, when her husband jumped on the running board of her car and demanded it for a short ride. He emphasized his command with a monkey-wrench. Three years ago, her story went on, when she had disobeyed him, she lost the little finger of her right hand. She held up the hand in court—and sure enough one finger was gone—clipped off by a shotgun, she declared.

However, she withdrew her charge. But Burnside then was haled into the federal court in Newark and charged with run-running between New Jersey and Nassau. He pleaded not guilty to the grand jury indictment and is awaiting trial with what grace he may, on heavy bail.

In Detroit a member of the old Knickerbocker set of New York city, lately become Detroit, has this to say about the Bootlegger Aristocracy in the Michigan city:

"At a big, fashionable social function this winter, I recognized my family bootlegger in the ballroom. He is quite a presentable chap and owns a dress suit. When your flask went dry you beckoned to him and he went out to his coupe, refilled your flask and delivered it to you for the usual hold-up price.

"When we first moved to this city we fought to observe secrecy in ordering our liquor, as we did in New York. We called up a friend's bootlegger, diffidently, and said Mr. So-and-So has given me your number. Er—will you come to see me? Er—will it be all right if I give you some idea of what I want?" A hearty carefree voice at the other end replied: "It's all right at this end if it's all right at yours. Whatcha want? A case or a barrel? 'Shoot!'"

The Detroit then goes on to tell about the bootlegger backing his delivery wagon up to the front curb and hoisting the barrel to his shoulder, plainly marked as it was with the name of its Scotch maker, for all the world to see.

And only recently a writer of social news told in a New York paper of a man "more socially prominent this past summer than the winter before and probably more prominent this winter than last summer," being arrested for having intoxicating stimulants in his possession. The multimillionaire was arrested as he sat at table in an exclusive restaurant.

Then there is the interesting record of the enterprising young woman who climbed into the newest aristocracy out of her little lingerie shop on an obscure side-street of New York. She supplemented lingerie with a side-line of liquor and as a result, it is said, the howling wolf will not so much as approach her doorstep.

And there is the story of the Los Angeles one-time stenographer who lived in the most exclusive and fashionable section of the city until she was caught as she led her "gang" to a cottage on the outskirts of the city where enough "ruff" to keep the police working for some little time was cached. She donned snappy male clothing and smoked a cigarette when she "worked."

Where does this new and startling aristocracy get its material? How is it handled? Since each social change forces a change in the physical map of the earth, what manner of new living conditions have followed the development of prohibition?

Perhaps the greatest change is the changing of Nassau, "Pearl of the North Atlantic," from a sleepy tropical town to a bustling smuggler's nest.

Shortly after the passing of the Volstead act Nassau was invaded by those Americans who were to become pioneers of the new aristocracy. Prominent in the Nassau aristocracy is the figure of Elmo Daneshower, sea captain, sportsman and owner of the queen of the smuggling fleet, the "Isle de Luzon," former pride of the Spanish navy. Gray painted hull, streaked with rust and dirt, and her turrets glinting in the sun, the steamer sailed for Jersey recently with 25,000 cases of whiskey pressing her deep in the water. Some of her cargoes represent an investment of $10,000,000 by anti-prohibitionists.

BAESMAN'S SELECTS AND MORRIS-HARVEY TEAMS CLASH HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Championship Games

IRONTON, Jan. 8.—Manager Theodore Rutledge of the Lombard Aerials announced Saturday that he had arranged with the St. Joseph Selects to begin a series of three floor games about the last week in January. The games will be staged on the 1. H. B. gym floor and will draw tremendous crowds.

CONTRACTS AWARDED

IRONTON, Jan. 8.—The new First National Bank is to be one of the safest institutions in America, as assured by contracts awarded to the Mosler Safe company of Hamilton, Ohio. Two vault doors were purchased for use by the new bank, one on the main vault where the cash and bank securities are kept and the other on the secondary vault where the safety deposit boxes are to be kept.

Game Marred By Too Many Fouls

Relative to the P. H. S.—Ironton game in the latter city, Saturday night Sunday's Irontonian said: "Day by day, in every way, Ironton's getting better and better." This was demonstrated Saturday evening when, contrary to all jottings, put forth to constitute the "dope bucket" the Ironton Hi Tigers took the highly touted Red and Blue hard-wood quintet from Portsmouth over the road to the tune of 33 to 8. But don't think for a minute the going was easy! Portsmouth, snarling under her gridiron drubbing by the locals, took the floor determined to win and if pep, strength and stamina could turn the trick, they would have succeeded. But the Ironton boys, though outwitted, were more accurate in shooting baskets and took the lead in the early stage, the first half ending 7 to 4 with Ironton on top.

Both teams used a five-man defense with Ironton getting the shade. Bickie was the chief point-maker, he shooting beautiful goals over the heads of opposing guards. He made three field goals and three foul goals, while Rutledge and Gallagher each contributed a field goal to the total. During the whole evening's play, Portsmouth was able to cage but one field goal, this by Phillips in the third period. The rest of their points were foul goals, scored by Monk.

90 Basketball Games A Week At Ohio State

Bullseyes Of Baseball

Greatest Series Pitching I Ever Saw
I have seen any number of great pitching feats in world series games. Joe Wood, now baseball coach at Yale, performed a masterpiece in the final inning of the first game of the series of 1912 between the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants.

In the third inning he repeated the performance of the previous session by getting Williams, Liebald and Eddie Collins in order. The spell was broken when the seventh man to face him grounded out to the infield. Eller had performed the extraordinary feat of retiring six of the hard-hitting White Sox in succession on strikes. Only a few of the strikes were called. In most cases the batsman took a healthy swing and missed by a wide margin.

Some of the later of the performance was taken away by the fact that Eller used a trick delivery. He so roughened the ball by use of emery paper, said to be concealed under his shirt, that he was able to make the ball take all kinds of peculiar twists.

At that time trick pitching was permitted, so there really should be no taint attached to the performance. The following year, trick pitching was barred. Eller, who depended on that style entirely, drifted to the minors.

TOMORROW—The freakiest base-running I ever saw.

Play Ashland Next
The Portsmouth high school basketball five plays its next game in Ashland next Friday night. The next home game will be on Tuesday night January 16 when the Sciotoville quintet plays in local gym.

Fortner Returns To Local Line-Up

Tomorrow night in the P. H. S. game the Baesman Selects clash with the Morris-Harvey College quintet. The Morris-Harvey five to be the third college five here so far this season. "The Selects" dropped their games to Miami and Ohio Western quintets but since the O. W. U. game they have been practicing hard and are in better shape now than when they went into battle with the other big teams.

Morris-Harvey College has a team this year that will give the Selects a real battle. Last season the Selects won two close games from Morris-Harvey and they mean to repeat the performance this season by winning the first game here.

Captain Baesman is rejoicing over the return of Hi Fortner to this city from Quicksand, Ky., where he has been playing basketball. He is a real player and will make a star guard to work along with Kent. This pair played together last season and with Fortner back in the game the teamwork of the Selects should be vastly improved.

The Morris-Harvey quintet is composed of former high school stars and players of several years college experience. Captain Lantz of the visitors is a forward who caused the locals all kinds of worry in their two contests last season. Delaney, the right forward, is a letter man from last year. Semon is a guard and center who has the height and center necessary for that important position and will make a real watch for Baesman, Rezzolico and Westfall, guards on the team last year are still in the game this season. Art Hammond star football player is a first line sub and may get into action at either guard or center.

The game will be called at eight o'clock. Season tickets purchased for the Miami and Morris-Harvey games are good for this contest. Slight admission will be made for adults and fifty cents for school children.

The Selects will hold a light workout this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the high school gym.

LEONARD WOULD MAKE DETROIT REAL CONTENDER

By NEA Service
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—What about Dutch Leonard, former star southpaw of the Detroit Tigers? Isn't it about time some club starts dicker for his services? Leonard refused to report to Detroit last season because of a salary difference. Leonard, who has become very wealthy in the last five years because of a big advance in his real estate holdings on the coast, held out for a figure that was much too high to suit Owner Navin of Detroit.

Now that Detroit looks to have such a good chance to win in 1923, it is possible that some effort will be made to get this ace. With a pitcher of Leonard's ability, working at top form, the Tigers would get a big boost for their pennant chances. Leonard did a little pitching in California last summer. It is understood he did not play against any intelligible, so he probably would be immediately reinstated if he applied to Commissioner Landis.

Seems a shame to have a southpaw of Leonard's ability going to seed, when left-handed pitchers are such a scarce article in the majors.

O. W. U. Had Big Year, Financially

Football receipts at O. W. U. last season were the greatest in the history of that school, amounting to $14,000. The team finished the season with more than $4,000 on the right side of the ledger.

Ryan And Downey Start To Train

Anthony Downey and Billy Ryan have already started to train for their ten round tilt in Cincinnati on January 23. There is no doubt but what this match will draw a $10,000 house as both boys are real fighters and for three years an effort has been made to get them together. Ryan should enter the ring a slight favorite.

EDDIE'S FRIENDS

HOW TO PLAY BASKETBALL

Q. Is it a foul if two men on one side and one on the opposing side have hold of the ball?
A. No. Both amateur and professional rules say this is "held ball."
Q. Can a player, jumping at center, tap the ball, recover it, dribble and shoot a goal before any other player touches the ball?
A. Under professional rules after player taps ball, it must hit the floor or cage before he recovers it. He then could dribble and shoot basket. Amateur rules say a player scored in this manner is legal.
Q. Has the timekeeper the right to take out time on out-of-bounds ball without the knowledge of the referee?
A. No. Time is taken out only when ordered by the referee.
Q. It on "held ball" a player taps the ball out of bounds, does it go to his opponent?
A. Yes.
Q. Can a player on a high school team play for practice with another team outside his school team?
A. Nothing in rules against it. As a rule the principal and the coach at high schools object to students playing outside.

How to Play Basketball
Back Guard—There are two types the running guard and the back guard. The back guard should be a big, rugged fellow. If the team is a good offensive one his work will be light. For this reason when the ball does threaten the goal he should be fresh and strong to fight hard to get it out and on its way. He should be particularly good in taking the ball off the backboard. The guard should be well trained in catching, passing, picking up, rolling balls and taking balls out of scrimmage. Mistakes in the fundamentals made by guards are costly. The back guard needs to be a cool player, for he is usually entrusted with the direction of the defense. It is not necessary for him to be an especially good shot. In all easy games the other guard should make it a point to insist on his going up the floor and scoring. Otherwise a team you are to meet later will know he does not score and will never bother covering him. This gives such opponents a too great advantage.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY IN THIS

Nig Blair has promised local promoters that he is going to train for all future bouts and train faithfully and conscientiously. Well, if this is true, Blair is going to whip a lot of top-motchers in his class. If it isn't true some third-rater will sooner or later breeze into town, put the cleaners on him and then he will be through as a boxer.

ILLINOIS AND STATE TEAMS CLASH TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8.—Ohio State and Illinois Universities renew their perpetual athletic feud this week. This evening the fast-stepping Illinois basketball quintet will square off against the Buckeyes here in the first local game of the Western Conference race. Ohio State wrestlers are carded to go to Illinois on Saturday for their baptismal "Big Ten" bout of the season. While the wrestlers are away, the basketball squad will engage in its second conference contest at home with Northwestern as opposition on Saturday.

Basketball Quiz

JUMPING FOR BALL
When the centers are jumping for the ball from the circle, may one of the players after the whistle has been blown, jump out of the circle and try to outguess his opponent by being in a position to receive the ball?

A player jumping from center has a perfect right to do so, provided he does not leave the circle until after the ball has been tapped.

POSITION

What must be the position of other players, when two players jump from center or elsewhere on a ball tossed by the referee?

There is no definite position for the other players on a tossed ball. They have a perfect right to assume any position that does not in any way interfere with the jumpers.

FACING BASKET

When players jump from center or elsewhere is it necessary that they face their own baskets when so jumping?

No particular facing is required, but as a rule the players have their eye on their own basket, so as to be in the best possible position to tap the ball to their advantage.

Secure Game In Tanktown

Tes Irontonian says:
The St. Joseph Selects will play the St. Mary's Ace Club quintet of Portsmouth at the high school gym next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock with an admission price of 25 cents.

The visiting squad are all members of the Portsmouth Ace Club and St. Mary's church and if reports are true they are able to give the locals one of the hardest battles of their career. They have the best bunch of basket shooters ever representing the church and expect to win in Tuesday night's engagement. Coached by Lavender of the Junior Selects the visiting squad is composed of Steneher, Oriet, Krick, Hurth, Billman, Oakes, Bickie, Schuler, Schaffer.

Coach Houser Is Peeved Because Pets Were Beaten

The Chillicothe News Advertiser in commenting on the P. H. S.—Chillicothe Hi game says:
As long as Clint Houser is coach of athletics in the local high school and as far as he is concerned, he will never take another basketball team to Portsmouth. He said as much to Principal Eccles of the River City school, Friday night, following the "door-foulball game" that was won by Portsmouth 21-18.
Every local fan who made the trip for the game came back thoroughly disgusted with the methods in vogue in the River City's style of play. In addition to this, Coach Houser discovered that Julius Baesman, who refereed the game was not a Spalding referee as he had been represented. It is understood that Portsmouth officials after the game were forced to admit that conditions might have been better in many respects.

Chillicothe high school has made an effort in recent years to be clean in her sports and to win fairly or lose gracefully. However, when there is such flagrant violations of sportsmanship that cost her a victory she naturally resents it and it is not a "tummy ache" cry either. Why shouldn't she? Baesman, the referee of the game, Friday night is a good basketball player himself and he has been giving the River City players the benefit of his knowledge.
Had the rules been followed as they should and had Baesman seen to it that they were, Chillicothe would have won the game easily. At the end of the first half, the score stood 15-0 in favor of the Blue and White but things got so rough in the second half that Chillicothe was forced to quit and the River City boys stopped them in until they won, 21-18.
